

WEBSPY WINS MICROSOFT THUMBS-UP

WebSpy, the WA developer of Internet access monitoring tools, has won approval to integrate its products with Microsoft's Internet Security and Acceleration Server 2000. WebSpy said the company will benefit from the breakthrough by its association with Microsoft, will gain extra revenue, and will be able to accelerate development of new technology through further software integration. www.webspynet.com.

Rust Report